

Florida vacation home rentals

Tanning lotion with SPF 70, check. Flip-flops, check. Cooling pray, check. Two-piece bikini, check. Bug-eye shades, check. Beach towel, check. Cooler filled with ice and beer, check and check! You are all set to your get away vacation to Florida! All you need is a place to stay. So now, you are looking for Florida vacation home rentals or hotel rooms where you can rest after a long sunny day of lazing around on the beach while you work on your tan.

If you are looking for home rentals, then you may check our some villas or cottages in Palm Beach which is in South of Florida. There is a certain website (VacationRentals.com, Inc.) where you can check out listings of houses and condominium units that list home you can rent. An example of a house listed is a studio unit for two at Fort Myers Beach for only $350 to $550 a week.

If you are looking for hotels to rent, then here is a brief listing:

- The Whitelaw Hotel in Miami that has an average rate of $135 a night
- The New Casablanca On The Ocean in Miami that has an average rate of $91.50 a night.
- The Fairmont Turnberry Isle Resort in Aventura that has an average rate of $205 a night.
- The Bel Aire South Beach in Miami has an average rate of $75 a night.
- The Regent Bal Harbour in Bal Harbour has an average rate of $305 a night.

So choose your accommodations now so you can finally say, Florida vacation, check!

About the Author

Source: <http://www.yourvacationtips.com>